What is the Okie TIPAC?

The Oklahoma Title Political Action Committee is a voluntary, non-profit, unincorporated association which helps elect candidates who have demonstrated support for the land title. Okie TIPAC supports only candidates for the Oklahoma legislature and for statewide office in Oklahoma.

How does Okie TIPAC operate?

It receives voluntary contributions from private individuals who are associated with the land title industry either through direct solicitation or fundraising events. Funds received are used to support candidates for office who are selected through a review of their voting records, political principles, and recommendations from local title people. Decisions regarding which candidates will receive contributions are made by the PAC Board of Directors.

I already pay my OLTA association dues. Why should I pay more?

Under state law, dues cannot be used for political contributions. These funds must be raised independently.

I don't like politics. Why should I get involved?

Whether you like it or not, you are involved in politics. Decisions about every aspect of the land title industry, including privacy issues, liens, property rights and possible deregulation of the industry are made by elected officials. Okie TIPAC works to help defeat adverse deregulation of the industry are made by elected officials. Okie TIPAC works to help defeat adverse legislation, while supporting pro-active initiatives which address problems facing the industry. Okie TIPAC plays a major role in these efforts.

Does Okie TIPAC support Democrats or Republicans?

Okie TIPAC is non-partisan and supports candidates on the basis of their commitment to the industry, regardless of party affiliation.

Why should we support political candidates financially?

It costs a great deal of money to run for public office, and it is becoming more expensive with every election cycle. Every candidate requires financial assistance to get his or her message before the voting public. This is why the PAC was formed – to help elect those candidates who support the land title industry. We have an obligation to our profession, friends, and family to participate in the political process.

I don't necessarily agree with other OLTA members on industry issues, so why should I contribute?

A strong PAC demonstrates that all OLTA members speak with a united voice. Although not every member agrees 100% on all issues, it is in everyone's best interest to make sure qualified candidates are elected and that legislators who are "friendly" incumbents are re-elected. Your support of the PAC greatly impacts elections and legislation.
